Female senior 1: I typed in www.email.com.

Male teen 1: yeah, that's the problem.

Female teen 1: Have you ever heard of YouTube?

Female senior 2: Yes, I've heard of it but I've no clue as to what it means!

Meeting speaker: How many people here have used a computer? Well, we have some teenage volunteers who are willing to teach you how to use the internet.

Female senior 3: I think I'm too old!

Female senior 4: Hope you have lots of patience, Henry!

Female teen 2: Today we're gonna go on Facebook. Do you remember how to get there?

Male senior 2: Well, I think I just, uh... no.

Meeting speaker: We all know how difficult it is to learn something new, but we really do feel that it can change your life.

Family member: Megan said, "Thank the people who taught you!"

Male teen 2: You're welcome!

Male senior 2: Love you!

Male teen 2: They see a program like this and they think it's an opportunity to get in touch with their grandkids and communicate.

Male senior 3: No matter how old we are, we do need a purpose for getting up in the morning.
